Excerpt: . . . easily determinable, so that the daily work capacity of the machine could be estimated without difiiculty. In making his estimates, however, the companys engineer was extremely conservative. He figured on a very loose schedule of operation and allowed plenty of time for emergencies and conditions that might have been overlooked. I 1 I THE NEVV METHOD. The decision to invest in machine equipment was finally made, and a 617-1-ton Alco truck with a 10-cubic yard dumping body was purchased. At the same time two large bottom-discharging hoppers with vertical bucket elevators were installed, anti these with the light electric railway already in use complete the equipment. The ashes from the kilns are now brought together by wheelbarrow to a cement pit where they are dumped. A bucket elevator, with its lower end in the bottom of the pit. carries the material to a height...
