II A RECENT TENDENCY IN SECONDARY EDUCATION EXAMINED The recent history of secondary school programmes, especially of high school programmes, in this country, reveals an interesting and significant tendency. Not many years ago, the secondary school programme consisted of a single course of study, or at most of two courses of study, which must be pursued, as laid down, by pupils who desired to graduate and obtain the diploma of the school. The substance of the preferred course of study was Latin, Greek, and Mathematics. The programme usually comprised also a smattering of general history, including the history of English literature, the writing of a few English essays or compositions, and occasionally political economy and mental science. This was the classical course always pursued by those pupils who were going to college; and to it most other pupils possessing, or at least claiming to...
